EXPLANATION OF VOTE
March 9, 2015

Under Rule No. 30, Rep. Lamberth requested that an explanation of his vote for House Bill No. 793 be entered into the Journal as follows:

This bill codifies TN case law by establishing that holders, other than the grantor, of certain future interests – right of entry and possibility of reverter – cannot transfer their future interest. TN Supreme Court cases have clearly established that such transfers are not valid. However, they have not specifically addressed such transfer by the grantor. Other case law provides that grantors may transfer interest they grant. I believe that case law in TN clearly allows grantors to transfer nonvested future interests.

This issue was brought to my attention by a youth camp in Warren County. This camp has had difficulty with the future interest in their property, both with the county government and with a group that purports to own the future interest. By codifying case law we are making it clear that the future interest in their property cannot be bought and sold. As sponsor of this legislation, it is also my intent that such a future interest should not be construed as real property and should not be taxed by the county.

By allowing interests to merge, we are providing the opportunity for entities with a present interest to have certainty for their future. As sponsor of this legislation it is my hope and my intent that lawful holders of such future interest transfer their interest to the corresponding entity then that entity can merge their interests to create a fee simple ownership. This is my intent for this camp in Warren County, who originally brought this to my attention, and it will be of benefit to all entities whose properties have a future interest held by others.
